

Learning Landscapes

Saturday-Sunday, Oct. 3-4, 2015

THE NATIVE AMERICAN LAND CONSERVANCY

The NALC seeks to “acquire, preserve and protect our sacred lands” in Southern California. The NALC has worked with many tribes across Southern California and the United States.

Questions?

NALC: Kurt Russo
phone: 360-961-4554
email: frkvalues@aol.com

Who: Native American Youth ages 12-18

What: On an overnight camping trip in the NALC's Old Woman Mountains Preserve, students learn about their cultural heritage with Cahuilla and Chemehuevi knowledge-bearers.

When: 8am Saturday , Oct 3– 6pm Sunday, Oct 4.

Where: The Old Woman Mountains Preserve (see map for approximate location)

Cost: Free with pre-registration due Sept. 15.

How do I sign my child up?

Download and print a permission slip and contact form from www.nalc4all.com/learning-landscapes. Spots are first-come, first-serve.

