NALC HISTORY

In 1997, an Inter-tribal group formed the Native American Land Conservancy to protect & preserve sacred landscapes important to Native American people. In 1998, the NALC incorporated a 501(c) (3), nonprofit corporation under the tax codes of the United States and California.

Since its inception, the NALC has emphasized intergenerational learning and has been provided with critical support from the Twenty-Nine Palms Band of Mission Indians.

The NALC Board of Directors, as well as its project participants, includes non-Natives who share our concern with the preservation of endangered biological and cultural resources. The NALC has a respected record of securing grants to help provide protective management of endangered sites, areas, and resources.

In addition to support from public & private sources, the NALC has an annual fundraising golf tournament. If you would like to learn more about how you can contribute to the work of preserving our natural and cultural heritage please contact us at 360-961-4554 or email frkvalues@aol.com.
